JALAPEÑO'S:

DESERT TRADITION GETS SO HOT!...

Jalapeño's Mexican Café, sitting at the corner of Scottsdale Road and Pinnacle Peak, has long been a North Scottsdale tradition. Now, Jalapeño's is kicking up the heat with the Jalapeño's Cantina.

Owners Terry and Laura Craig purchased Jalapeño's in late 2000. Since then, they've watched the restaurant grow. And now, Jalapeño's offers even more.

Just a step away from the family dining room sits the newest addition to the café—Jalapeño's Cantina. Surrounded by the colors of the Arizona sunset, you'll also find yourself surrounded by friends in this bar that has the feel of a hometown hangout.

But the Cantina is much more than a neighborhood bar. As the front patio fills up, the drinks start to flow, and you ease back against your seat with the music taking you away, you'll see why Jalapeño's Cantina is growing in popularity.

Select from the "Margarita Madness" menu and experience margaritas made with one of the more than 40 Blue Agave Tequilas. The Cantina offers a great margarita sampler—any three for only $8.99.

The Jalapeño's Cantina, like the café itself, caters to a customer base that is mostly ages 35 up. The atmosphere is almost like a comfortable evening at a friend's house. The dress is casual, with most of the men in jeans or shorts, sandals and T-shirts. Women don shorts or capris, heels and cool summer tops. But even women who want to glitz it up a bit will fit right in at Jalapeño's. A typical Friday night offers a great showcase of awesome shoes, great handbags, sparkling belts and those cute halters that are so hot this season.

Whether you're looking for a great after-work hangout, a neighborhood place where you can always find a friendly face, or a comfortable spot to meet with the girls, you'll find it at this hot spot. In addition to Happy Hour, (3:30 to 6:30 p.m. daily), enjoy "Ladies Night Out" every Thursday.

Ladies Night Out takes on a whole new dimension this summer, when there are weekly themes with prizes, food and drink specials. From Sexy Seminars and Devine Diva Days to the Pamper 'n' Party and Manicure Nights, you'll find a summer full of casual fun, good food, and plenty of tall cool drinks at Jalapeño's Café and Cantina. ☀
